I am passionate about programming and technology with my skills in developing E-commerce web applications using readily available web frameworks. With passion and grit for learning, I would like to take part in empowering your team with my newly found coding expertise. I was able to develop projects that would prove my skills not only at school but also at the training I attended at Zuitt coding bootcamp.

ABOUT ME

Quality time with those I love has always been a priority - this is how I developed my basketball skills with my dad and communicating properly to people with my mom. This led to me joining our school's varsity basketball team when I was in college. As a personal hobby I love weightlifting and basketball, after committing to it for a month I lost 25 pounds. I really felt proud of myself because I certainly knew to myself that if I commit myself to something and give it my all I can really achieve anything. Also, I love playing computer games, specifically strategy genre games. I've always been a fan of games like Age of Empires, Battle Realms and Warcraft 3.
